

CLAIMS

- 5
1. A document formatting tool comprising:
- means for intercepting data from an application and which is being sent to a printer;
- means for utilizing such intercepted data as a key to a database to determine other information relevant to such data; and
- means for printing out such data in a format different from that in which it was received by a print spool associated with a printer, such difference being based upon information received from the database.
- 10
2. The tool according to claim 1 wherein said difference includes generating multiple copies of said document even when only one copy of said document was received from the print spool.
- 15
3. The method of claim 1 wherein said difference includes generating multiple documents which are similar and differ only by certain information derived from a database look-up.
4. The tool according to claim 3 wherein said information is based upon whether or not information is confidential.